As dental professionals, we are constantly evolving, striving to advance our practice, improve patient care, and contribute to the ever-growing field of dentistry. One crucial way we can make a significant impact is by sharing our knowledge, research, and breakthroughs through publications. Each paper, article, or study contributes not only to our personal growth but also to the advancement of the dental community at large.

We present to you the Journal of Indian Dental Association Madras (JIDAM), an exclusive publication by the IDA Madras Branch. It is designed to bring together the collective knowledge in the form of articles, case reports, research work etc by our fraternity .

This initiative with Dr. Burnice on board as the editor of JIDAM ,whose tireless efforts have brought this vision to life. Her unwavering commitment to advancing dental science and education has been a driving force behind the success of JIDAM.

I strongly encourage all dentists to invest time and effort in contributing to JIDAM. Whether through original research, clinical articles, case reports or the presentation of new technologies and treatments, your contributions are invaluable.

Together let us continue to advance in the field of dentistry through collaboration, knowledge-sharing, and the pursuit of excellence.
